HAWTHORNE RACING.

A bleak November like day sent the leisurely inclined to duck shooting rather than racing, but the fair card at Hawthorne was patronized by the "regulars," attired in everything by way of a fender against the chill air, from a "gossamer" to a horse blanket. The grandstand, oft times referred to as a flower garden, looked more like a bed of cabbages, and as all the caloric in Hawthorne's end of the township had been used up twenty-four hours previously in a fire which consumed a 7x9 grocery opposite the quarter pole, the heat was furnished through suggestion by the band, which aggregation of shivering mortals kept up during the entire afternoon in a fever and ague quaver the stirring selection "There'll be a hot time in the old town tonight." Nothing daunted by the outlook, twenty bookmakers cut in for one day.

May W, off in front in the first race, was taken back by "Cass" Sloan and Ferroll allowed to make the pace, the favorite lying second. Locust Blossom was third and Azucena fourth at the turn for home. Madam Dewey was left at the post and Neome, Hester and Lucy Belle couldn't run a little bit. Ferroll led to the last eighth where Azucena began her run and when she got to May W the favorite went on, the pair racing past Ferroll in a twinkling. May W won by an open length, Azucena finishing three lengths better than Ferroll, third.

Fausalight, an aged horse by Cleofas, dam Mollie Howell, was backed from 50 down to 12 to 1 for the second race. He went to the post sore all over and horsemen said that since his last start he had had 50 pounds taken off. Fausalight was left at the post but ran the course, being away up the homestretch when Judge Steadman crossed the wire a winner. The start was a straggling one. Judge Steadman broke the quickest but Amelia Fonso went to the front and stayed there to the last eighth, always being closely hustled by Greyhurst, Amanda and Cherryflame. Here a fierce drive began and Cherryflame swerved as she came to the front then staggered all over the track. Judge Steadman, fifth on the last turn, came on next the rails and going on won by three open lengths from Celtic Bard who ran a great race through the last three-eighths. Amanda was third just ahead of Greyhurst and Amelia Fonso. Del Paso II was beaten one hundred yards.

Barney Schreiber, wishing to test the ability of Miss Marion to go a distance (Himyar's get are not noted for going on), started her at one mile and had all his doubts removed, and so will enter her for the three-year-old stakes. Yet the filly did not win, and this because her jockey, J. Reiff, was too weak to hold her head up, or possibly was benumbed by the cold. To a good start for all but Dunois, a bumping match occurred in going to the first turn, rounding which it looked as if Timemaker and Miss Marion would be quite knocked out of the race. J. Reiff got through, however, and Miss Marion was leading at the quarter. On and on she went, increasing her lead, and came into the stretch ten lengths to the good, Eva Rice still second, all those behind the flying leader staggering. It was any odds on Miss Marion, but she began to stop at the last eighth, and was beaten at the last 100 yards by Timemaker, who went on and won easily by two lengths from Basquil, who passed Miss Marion in the final stride. Cherry Leaf finished close up, fourth. Basquil had plenty left and ran another full mile before being stopped.

Lucid led the pack, Branch second, for seven-eighths in the fourth race. Passing the judge's the first time Uarda and David Tenny were lying side and side close to the leaders and here they ran for over a mile. Treachery moved up to Lucid in the homestretch and soon had him beaten. At the last three-sixteenths "Skeets" Martin sent David Tenny along, but he did not catch Treachery until well inside the last sixteenth, Dunne's horse then going on and winning comfortably from Uarda, who beat Treachery one length. Uarda suffered from interference on the upper turn. Lucid finished fourth, but was moved into the third money by the disqualification of Treachery (J. Reiff up). Branch was up at the betting ring. George Lee, as usual, could not get agoing, and was away back with Mr. Easton up the backstretch.

Judge Rees said that Treachery bore in and choked off Lucid just inside the last sixteenth post. J. Reiff admitted the foul, but said he could not keep Treachery straight.

Although Ailyar won the fifth race, it was hardly after the fashion of a horse justifiably a 1 to 3 chance. Fontainebleu was on his neck in a hot drive the last 150 yards. Be True was third, four lengths back and six lengths better than Nellie Fonso, who led for nearly one-half mile. The other starters were never in sight.

Redskin, Czarowitz and others delayed the start for the closing race which was again somewhat straggling. Rideau, a newcomer, a horse which ran well on the Northern Circuit, was off in front and led to the homestretch from Abe Furst, the pair outracing Bishop Reed, third, by several lengths. Abe Furst won easily the last eighth, and W. C. T., from fourth place on the upper turn, got up in time to secure the place from Rideau, who finished third. Bishop Reed, fourth, was three lengths better than Newgatherer, who was backed as a "good thing." Tom Hurns thought he could win with Milwaukee. A cold drizzling rain set in just as the horses went to the post.

Starter Bruen did very well throughout the day all things considered.

"Tommy" Magee said that Edward Corrigan was much improved and at last accounts was resting easily.

BETTING ON RACES BY SYSTEM.

An eastern writer who has evidently had experience in that line whereof he writes asks a question that annually perplexes thousands of hopeful turf tenderfeet and sums up his conclusions as follows:

"Is it possible to devise a system to beat the races?"

"Thousands of people who have pored over turf statistics during long winter nights firmly believe that systematic play will win. Many others who have paid some attention to the laws of chances, or to the vagaries of luck, to put the matter more plainly, are not so sanguine.

"That much time and thought are annually expended in the development of 'systems' is certain, and that some of these hard and fast methods of betting achieve at least temporary success is also certain. But this ready road to fortune is strewn with the wreckage of countless hoarded savings, and it is yet to be demonstrated that any system has stood the crucial test for any period of time.

"The simplest form of systematic betting is that of parleying over the mounts of some particular jockey. That is, you begin with a specified sum, say $10, and if you lose double your bet or increase it sufficiently at each new hazard to win back your losses and a stated sum besides. This scheme, like a good many others, is all right—if it is lucky.

"For example, any follower of Maher would have won all through the season up to the period three or four weeks ago, when Maher began to lose. The Bank of England would scarcely have tided the daring speculator over Maher's succession of twenty-three losing mounts.

"Systems of parleying over the favorites or the second choices to win or for place have about as much merit as the jockey plan. There is nothing like it while the favorites and second choices are winning. But when outsiders land in front, as they did the first days of the Gravesend meeting, then the prospect is not quite so cheerful.

"You can prove anything by figures. You can work out a system of betting based on favorites and second choices that will put you in the mood to look with pity on the demented folk around you who continue to work for a living. Your system is perfect—on paper—but when you come to put it into practical operation, that is quite another matter. Scores of contingencies not provided for in the figures will confront you at every turn.

"Among two or three well backed horses you will find it difficult, for example, to decide on the particular one that is favorite. And you cannot afford to make a mistake if your system demands that you should bet a big amount of money, say $1,000 or more.

"A scheme of betting that has some merit was put in operation a few years ago by a couple of clever young men from Brooklyn. But there was not very much 'system' about it after all. It was merely a matter of betting on form. The card each day was 'doped' down to from three to four selections in each race, according to the number of entries, first, second third, and fourth.

"Then the young men began betting on the first choices to win $10, and they kept doubling up for six races, when, if they failed to strike a winner, they began over again. A similar practice was pursued with the horses named to be second, third and fourth. The transactions were carried in column account form, and a separate account was kept for each column.

"The feature of the plan that permitted its successful operation for a time was the fact that frequently big bets placed on the third and fourth horses at profitable odds happened to win.

"Undoubtedly handicapping and the study of form, condition and price are the best guides to betting. If the average man can't beat the races by betting on the best horses he can't beat them at all. The handicappers, some of whom have grown rich in the last few years, hold to this proposition. They assume that the best horse will win.

"Of course, the best horses do not always win, but they win a big majority of the races, and if a man can successfully handicap to the best form, and bet that way, he is pretty certain to make a brave fight with the layers of odds, even if he does not beat them appreciably.

"A clever young handicapper has won handsomely this season through his judgment of form and of price. When he handicaps three or four horses very nearly together, jockeys and other conditions being equal, instead of betting on one that is favorite, or second choice, he bets on one that is at a long price, 10 or 15 or 20 to 1. Of course, he only wins occasionally, but one can afford to lose quite a number of races if he can land on a 20 to 1 shot once in a while.

"This seems to be the real secret of successful betting. Suppose, for example, that there are ten horses in a race. Your handicap shows that the contest ought to be between four of them, and these four are very close together, not more than two or three pounds between any of them. Suppose, further, that one is a favorite in the

NOTES OF THE TURF.

Secretary Hopper is making arrangements for some of the "highest type of racing" before the close of the meeting. Workmen have been engaged in getting the steeplechase course in readiness for the jumpers. A new water jump has just been completed across the track from the grandstand. There are four or five good jumpers now at the track, and a number of others are to come from Chicago and the Canadian circuit. Until other trained timber-toppers arrive at the track no hurdle or steeplechase races will be put on. Secretary Hopper proposes to reduce the danger of accidents to a minimum by allowing only horses that have been tried at the game to start in any jumping races that may be given.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

W. G. Cooke, Chicago. The Eclipse Course is six furlongs straight and partly down hill. Time over it is necessarily always much faster than that made over the other two tracks at Morris Park. Six furlongs in 1:08, five and a half furlongs in 1:03 and five furlongs in 58½ being examples. The inner course, called the Withers mile, is an exact mile around. The outer or main course is 1 1-8 miles around. The two races you refer to were over the Eclipse Course. Races there at six furlongs or less are over this course unless otherwise specified in the conditions.

J. Storey Curtis will ship his horses in training and his yearlings to England to-morrow. He has had little success here this season, and will try to retrieve his losses next season on the English courses. It is said that Sydney Paget will send Damien, Sir Vassar and two others over with the Curtis lot. The intention is to start Sir Vassar in some of the late fall jumping events.

J. M. Murphy has consigned Buck Massie to Woodard & Shanklin to be sold at their December Lexington sales for stud purposes.

BETTING ON RACES BY SYSTEM.

betting 7 to 5, another second choice at 5 to 2, that the third is quoted at 10 to 1, and the fourth at 20 to 1.

"If your handicap is correct, then these prices are obviously wrong, because there is not the difference of 7 to 5 and 20 to 1 between any of the quartet. Therefore when you bet on the 10 to 1 horse, or on the 20 to 1 horse, you are simply betting against the bookmaker. You are betting that your handicap is right and that his prices are wrong. And if you are a clever handicapper you are bound to be financially right sometimes, because the result will demonstrate that the odds quoted were wrong.

"When a man bets on the favorite the percentage is against him, but when he bets on the outsider that ought to be favorite, then it looks as though the percentage is with him and against the man who lays the odds.

"This careful study of form and price, all the big plungers say, is the secret of successful betting."

Winner—B. f. by Eagle Plume—Froila.
Start fair. Won easily; second with something left after an early drive.

Third the same. May W. was in a soft spot. She far outclassed her field and was never extended.
The price against her was a royal one considering the class of horses she had to contend with.
Azucena was practically the only one that had any semblance of quality. Ferroll showed a flash of speed but was outclassed by the first two and could not contend with them when the pinch came. It was always a three horse race although Lucy Belle was prominent the first part of it.
Locust Blossom made up a lot of ground the last quarter.

Scratched—Dixie Lee, 109; Revenge Dare, 104; Blanche, 104; Graziella, 109; Peg Parks, 104;
Hardly, 109; Miss Kinbello, 104; Whirmantline, 104; Lizzie Miles, 109; Free Lady, 109.
May W, place, 1 to 5. Azucena, place, 2 to 5. Ferroll, show, even.

Winner—Br. g. by Heretog—Lela B.
Post 9 minutes. Start good. Won easily; the next three were hard at it. Judge Steadman ran a corking good race. Sloan placed him nicely and came through on the rails in the stretch like a flash. Celtic Bard had a rough journey. He had to go out and around the bunch on the stretch turn and was coming strong at the finish. Amanda is consistent. She looked outclassed but ran well. Greyhurst had a good turn of speed. He quit and came again at the end. Amelia Fonso dislikes a route. She was a good filly for three-quarters and then quit. Jim Blackburn warmed up well but did not race well. Cherryflame was swerving all over the track in the stretch. She acted badly at the post. Fausalight, heavily played, pulled up quite late.
Scratched—C. H. Whelan, 104; Unity, 104; Queen Safie, 104; Con Reagan, 112; Parole d'Or, 114.
Overweight—Fausalight, 3 pounds; Jim Blackburn, 2; Celtic Bard, 1; Cherryflame, 11.

Time, 12, 24, 47, 59, 1:05.

Winner—B. f. by Martenburst—May H.
Start good. Won driving. Trolley was perfectly handled and her speed saved for the finish. Swamp Angel ran above his previous best form, closing very gamely. Counselor Wernberg was the best. He likes the Eclipse course and mud and is very good, but got poor handling. Red Spider outran himself. Armament evidently dislikes the Eclipse course and stopped very badly. The others were far outclassed. Woodbird placed among slower ones and on a fast track may do well.

Scratched—St. Callatine, 126; High Degree, 119; Toluca, 119; Saltaire, 101.
Trolley, place, 9 to 10; show, 1 to 2. Swamp Angel, place, 6 to 5; show, 3 to 5. Counselor Wernberg, show, 3 to 5.

Time, 11, 25, 37, 50, 1:16, 1:23.

Winner—Ch. f. by Falsetto—Glimpse.
Start good. Won pulled up. Gaze was far the best and is a wonder in mud. Tendresse is of fair class, but wants a fast track and more competent handling. Great Neck shows staying qualities, likes any going and ran well. Passaic is best in mud. He ran well but was outclassed and overweighted. Lepida is inferior and unreliable. Colonel Tenny was badly handled. King's Pride wants a fast track and a route, but is only ordinary.

Overweights—Passaic, 2 pounds.
Gaze, place, 3 to 5; show, 1 to 3. Tendresse, place, 8 to 5; show, 4 to 5. Great Neck, show, 8 to 5.

Winner—B. f. by Ben Strome—Roseleaf.
Start good. Won driving. Kenmore Queen was the best at the weights and was well ridden. She is game and can stay. Laverock took the long route and closed like a whirlwind. St. Callatine showed remarkable form for her over such a trying course. She wants a fast track. Lilian Bell stopped right at the end after looking like a winner. Martha II quit badly in the last quarter. Clonsilla ran well for a mile, but was outclassed.

Scratched—Briar Sweet, 131; Kilt, 93; L'Alouette, 104.

Time, 14, 24, 37, 50, 1:16, 1:24.

Winner—B. c. by Orono—George Keene.
Start good. Won easily. George Keene was easily the best and the going suited him. He was shut off at the start. Bangle ran a high class race but the going was against him somewhat. Warrenton closed like a whirlwind at the end after being outrun early. He wants a fast track and a route and is very good. Rhinelander got a badly judged ride. He is very good and a stay horse. Bendoran liked the going but was outclassed. He is wonderfully fast but cowardly.

Scratched—Swiftmas, 131; Macy, 126; St. Callatine, 117; Autumn, 113; Toluca, 107; Blarney-stone, 105.

Time, 13, 25, 37, 50, 1:03, 1:16, 1:42.

Winner—B. c. by Bob Miles—Espanita.
Start good. Won driving. Manuel was outrun the first part of the race and seemed to be badly beaten at all stages, but ran a phenomenal last quarter. He is best over a fast track and is a fine stay horse over a distance. Uturn was made too much use of in the first part. If saved, he would undoubtedly have won, because he was at home in the going. Cormorant liked the track and ran far better than he has before shown and finished gamely. Duke of Middleburg curled up early, but showed much speed.

Scratched—King Barkly, 110; Manlius, 110; Domineer, 110; Acushla, 107; La Penitente, 107.
